

Litigation Support

Meticulous and thorough.
Support when you most need it.

At Nexia Australia, you benefit from an experienced and trusted Litigation Support team with solid taxation expertise. We structure settlement agreements in the most effective format to achieve the best possible financial outcome.

Whichever side of the litigation fence you are sitting, there is no guaranteed outcome. The litigation process is taxing, often divisive and stressful for those involved. This can be exacerbated even further when it concerns family members.

Proposals for the settlement of disputes are often personal, driven by emotional or subjective considerations and require compromise. Many matters settle at, or prior to, the hearing. However, while the short-term concerns have been addressed, any liable taxation may have not.

In every settlement, the incidence of tax can significantly affect the value of compensation. If you are facing litigation, it is essential to understand what benefits you will achieve under a proposed settlement agreement and you need to be assured that any compensation or benefits will not trigger other adverse consequences.

The Litigation Support team at Nexia Australia specialise in the financial impact of litigation and ensuing settlement. We work closely with you to understand your circumstances and provide clear, practical advice on the taxation issues that commonly arise in civil litigation or family law disputes.

Our goal is to structure settlement agreements in the most effective format to achieve the best possible taxation outcome. We provide litigation support services including:

- family law;
- personal injury;
- commercial litigation; and
- wills and estates.

Any compromise agreements or terms of settlement require meticulous and thorough consideration. It is essential to have the best support on board to help guide you through.
